A BRITISH SERIAL KILLER IN SINGAPORE: A TRUE STORY

It could happen to anyone.

You have just arrived at one of the safest cities in the world. As you are leaving the airport, a tall, dark and handsome stranger approaches you and asks for help.

As he is charming and friendly, you let your guard down and start to chat with him. Seeing that you are also travelling alone, he suggests staying in the same hotel and sharing a cab to save money. And why not? Good to have a new friend to watch out for you in a foreign land. However, those who said "yes" to the friendly stranger ended up dead hours later.

This is the true story of a man who went on a world tour to hunt his victims with a sinister skill.

Body parts murderer John Martin, who was trained in butchery, was the first serial killer to be convicted in Singapore.

His modus operandi was to first bash his victims with a hammer and then cut up their bodies at the joints with a small knife.

He could have gone scot-free but for underestimating the mettle of his foe — the Singapore Police Force.

Also included is an epilogue where the author re-imagines how a similar case would pan out if it happens today.

TAN OOI BOON | AUTHOR

A legally-trained writer, Tan Ooi Boon first broke John Martin's sensational serial murders in March 1995 when he was the law and crime journalist with Singapore's main daily, The Straits Times. He had written extensively on law and crime matters. This is his sixth book.

Take a culinary voyage through the vibrant flavours of Malaysia with MasterChef UK contestant, Zaleha Kadir Olpin, as she shares her favourite family recipes in this cookbook. Malaysian-born Zaleha pays tribute to dishes she grew up with, including laksam, a rolled rice noodle dish unique to the East Coast of Malaysia; nasi lemak, one of Malaysia's most iconic dishes; as well as chicken rendang, the controversial dish she prepared on the show.

Mostly handed down from her mother and grandmother, Zaleha's recipes maintain traditional methods of cooking, but are suitable for use in the modern kitchen so you can experience Malaysian cuisine in all its authenticity. She also shares lessons she learnt growing up in a culinary family, with insights into the importance of food in Malaysian culture. Written from the heart, this book will appeal to anyone looking to expand their flavour repertoire or just wanting to dip their toes into the delightful world of Malaysian cooking.

"This book is a warm plate of Malaysian goodness, perfect for serving from all kitchens, at home and abroad."

—Chef Dato' Fazley Yaakob, Executive Chef, SukaSucre Bistro, Kuala Lumpur

"Zaleha Olpin is someone who wouldn't allow a word to crush her. She made it work for her – thus the title of this beautiful book that showcases authentic Malaysian food at its finest."

—Zaharah Othman, New Straits Times, Malaysia

About the Author

Zaleha Kadir Olpin is most well-known for being a contestant in MasterChef UK Season 14, where her traditional chicken rendang was criticised by judges for not being crispy, causing her to be eliminated from the competition. Since then, Zaleha has gained tremendous support from foodies all over the world.

Zaleha grew up in Malaysia and was taught to cook traditional Malaysian dishes by her mother from an early age. Today, Zaleha lives in Bristol, UK, where she runs the successful Malaysian Kitchen UK with friends. She also teaches at a cookery school to share the tastes and flavours of Malaysian cuisine with others.

SEVEN HUNDRED YEARS

A History of Singapore

Synopsis

Assessments of Singapore's history invariably revolve around Sir Stamford Raffles' arrival in 1819. Before this date – we've been told – "nothing very much appears to have happened in Singapore". Pre-1819 Singapore was a sleepy, historically insignificant fishing village, little more than the "occasional resort of pirates".

This ambitious book, co-written by four of Singapore's foremost historians, offers an assertive re-evaluation of that view, firmly situating Singapore's starting point seven hundred years ago. Drawing on a multi-disciplinary range of archival, textual and cartographical records, as well as the latest archaeological discoveries, the authors cast a singular historical trajectory for Singapore over the past seven centuries, animating its history like never before.

Written in a compelling and accessible manner, and richly illustrated with more than 200 artefacts, photographs, maps, art works and ephemera, this volume builds upon the foundations of an earlier book, Singapore: A 700-Year History. Extensively rewritten to incorporate ground-breaking research findings, Seven Hundred Years: A History of Singapore widens the historical lens and offers a vital new perspective on the story of Singapore.

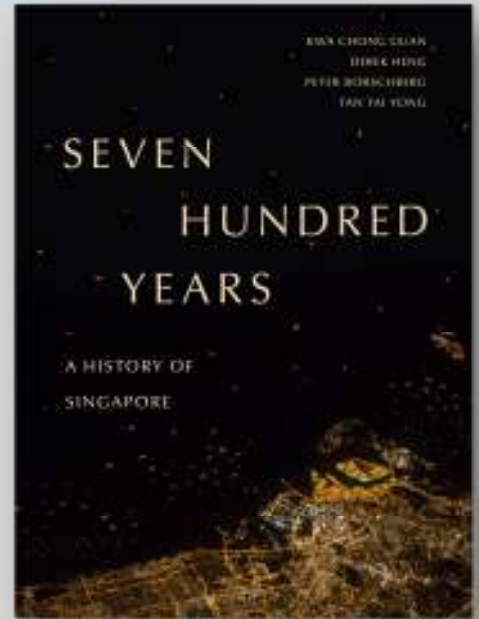

The Authors

Kwa Chong Guan is an adjunct associate professor in the Department of History at the National University of Singapore.

Derek Heng is Chair of the Department of History at Northern Arizona University, USA.

Peter Borschberg teaches history at the National University of Singapore. He is also a visiting professor in Modern History at the University of Greifswald.

Tan Tai Yong is a Professor of Humanities at Yale-NUS College, Professor of South Asian history at the National University of Singapore, and current President at Yale-NUS College.

Entrepreneurs should learn from past successes but also be prepared to break new ground. A Dozen Lessons for Entrepreneurs shows how the insights of leading venture capitalists can teach readers to create a unique approach to building a successful business. Through profiles and interviews of figures such as Bill Gurley of Benchmark Capital, Marc Andreessen and Ben Horowitz of Andreessen Horowitz, and Jenny Lee of GGV Capital, Tren Griffin draws out the fundamental lessons from their ideas and experiences. With insight and verve, Griffin argues that innovation and best practices are discovered by the experimentation of entrepreneurs as they establish the evolutionary fitness of their business. Griffin shows that listening to what the best venture capitalists have to say is invaluable for entrepreneurs. Their experiences, if studied carefully, teach bedrock methods and guiding principles for approaching business.

Author: Tren Griffin

Tren Griffin works at Microsoft. He writes the www.25iq.com blog and is active on Twitter (@TrenGriffin). He was formerly a partner at Eagle River, a private equity firm controlled by Craig McCaw with investments in telecommunications and startups. He is the author of six other books, including Charlie Munger: The Complete Investor (Columbia, 2015).
